

United States Navy Biography

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER (LCDR) DANIELLE K. BRODERICK

LCDR Broderick grew up in a military family, moving around throughout her childhood. She earned a Bachelor of Science in Nursing from California State University, Long Beach. She was commissioned through the Nurse Candidate Program in March 2013 and attended basic training at Officer Development School in May 2013.

LCDR Broderick's first command was Naval Medical Center, San Diego where she worked on inpatient pediatrics for two years prior to transferring to labor and delivery in 2015. She has served three tours as a labor and delivery nurse, including two OCONUS tours.

LCDR Broderick is currently serving her fifth tour at Naval Medicine and Readiness Training Center, San Diego. Her accomplishments throughout her career include the Daisy Award, three Naval Achievement Medals, one Navy Commendation Medal, and obtaining her registered nursing certification in inpatient obstetrics (RNC-OB).